THURSDAY, March 19, 1761.

To the KING's moſt Excellent MAJESTY.

The humble ADDRESS of the Right Hon. the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament aſſembled, Novem. 18, 1760.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the lords Spiritual and Temporal, in Parliament aſſembled, beg leave to return your majeſty our humble thanks for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne.

On this firſt occaſion of approaching your royal perſon, rmit us to expreſs our unfeigned ſorrow for the ſevere and flicting loſs, which not only this nation, but all Europe has ſtained in the ſudden death of our late excellent and moſt acious ſovereign, your majeſty's illuſtrious grandfather, he long experience which we had of his royal virtues, the nignity of his government, and his uniform care of our ws and liberties, not interrupted in any one inſtance during e courſe of ſo many years, demand from us the moſt grate- l acknowledgments; and will make his memory as dear us as the height and ſplendor to which he had raiſed the eatneſs of theſe kingdoms, will render it glorious to all ſterity.

Such a loſs could only be repaired by your majeſty. And the ſame time that we condole with your majeſty on this lancholy event, we beg leave to offer you our moſt ſincere ngratulations on your happy acceſſion to the throne. As r majeſty is the rightful and immediate inheritor of his own, you are ſo of thoſe virtues with which he adorned it; d which promiſe a continuation of the ſame bleſſings to ſe kingdoms. It fills our minds with inexpreſſible joy, to the pleaſing hopes we had conceived from your many ncely and amiable endowments, and the early demonſtra- ns of your affection to this country, ſo fully verified in r firſt declarations to your parliament.

We are penetrated with the condeſcending and endearing nner in which your majeſty has expreſſed your ſatisfaction having received your birth and education amongſt us. hat a luſtre doth it caſt on the name BRITON, when you, , are pleaſed to eſteem it amongſt your glories!

The ſeveral paternal aſſurances which your majeſty has chſafed to give us, ſpeak your reſolution to be the com- n father of your people. No ſtronger proof can be given it than by adopting this undeniable maxim, That their love he beſt ſecurity of your throne. From this principle will urally flow the ſtricteſt adherence to our excellent conſtitu- n in church and ſtate, and the maintenance of that ſureſt nent of the proteſtant intereſt in theſe kingdoms, the To- ation: And we cannot but applaud your majeſty's wiſdom piety in making the encouragement of true religion and ue one of the great foundations of your government.

We adore the goodneſs of providence in the ſignal ſucceſſes h which we have been bleſſed this laſt ſummer. The uction of the extenſive province of Canada, with the of Montreal, is an event of the higheſt importance in ry view; and it is no ſmall addition to the glory reſulting m it, to have ſhewn, that while the Britiſh arms carry queſt, they carry protection.

We look upon the great advantages gained in the Eaſt-In- , as highly beneficial to the trade of theſe kingdoms. d we have the juſteſt ſenſe of the happy conſequences ived to the operations of Great-Britain in particular, as ll as to the common cauſe in general, from the wiſe con- t of Prince Ferdinand of Brunſwick. After what the my had before experienced from his abilities, we are not prized that they ſhould not come to a deciſive engagement.

The magnanimity and perſeverance of the King of Pruſſia, l not only be the admiration of the preſent age, but of terity; and the noble ſtand made, and the victories ob- ned by that Prince, muſt be the ſtrongeſt motives to the wers engaged againſt him, to concur in the proper mea- es to reſtore the tranquility of Europe.

The judicious ſentiments which your Majeſty has declared us, concerning your royal navy, and the commerce of r ſubjects, are truly worthy of a Britiſh monarch, re- ved to improve our natural ſtrength, and moſt valuable ources. The weakening of the French force by ſea, to great a degree, and the low ſtate to which their trade is uced, we eſteem amongſt the moſt ſolid benefits accruing this nation from the expenſive efforts made this war.

Your Majeſty's regard for public merit ſhines forth in the eral notice, which you are pleaſed to take of the valour intrepidity of your officers and forces by ſea and land. ey are equally conducive to the ſafety and glory of our ntry; and your gracious acceptance of the ſervice of the litia, as being uſeful in the preſent arduous conjuncture, l be a great encouragement to their zeal.

At the ſame time that we thankfully acknowledge your jeſty's tender conſideration for your people, in your hes to have found your kingdoms in full peace, we cannot admire your wiſdom in the comprehenſive ſenſe you have preſſed of the cauſes and neceſſity of the preſent war. We convinced that your majeſty's humane diſpoſition, makes lament the calamities of it; whilſt your greatneſs of d has determined you to purſue it with vigour, in order ſafe and honourable peace, ſo deſirable, not only to your n ſubjects, but to all Europe. Animated by that duty which we owe your Majeſty, and by our zeal for the honour and intereſt of theſe kingdoms, we give your Majeſty the ſtrongeſt aſſurances, that we will chearfully ſupport you in proſecuting the war; aſſiſt the King of Pruſſia, and the reſt of your allies; and heartily concur in all ſuch meaſures, as ſhall be neceſſary for the defence of your majeſty and your dominions, and for the other national and important ends which you have ſo fully laid before us.

The anxiety, which your majeſty has ſo early declared, for the uncommon burdens of your people, demands our ſincereſt thanks. Your tender concern will be an inducement to bear them the more chearfully, and a pledge to your faithful ſubjects, that they ſhall be relieved from them as ſoon as the public ſecurity will, in ſound policy, admit.

Theſe many and eminent proofs of your majeſty's goodneſs, and of your fixed attention to our happineſs, call upon us for the warmeſt returns of duty, gratitude, and affection, to your ſacred perſon and government. Our loyalty and fidelity are inviolable. Our reſolution to maintain your undoubted title to the Imperial crown, and the Proteſtant ſucceſſion in your illuſtrious houſe, at the hazard of our lives and fortunes, is never to be ſhaken. Happy ſhall we be in every inſtance, whereby we may be able to contribute to the glory, proſperity, and eaſe of your reign. Your majeſty's prudence, and the benevolence of your royal heart, have pointed out to us the moſt agreeable means of promoting theſe ends, by ſo ſtrongly inculcating the continuance of that union and good harmony, which ſubſiſt amongſt your people. In doing this, your majeſty has ſet an inviting and powerful example to all your ſubjects, which we are determined to follow, by performing every thing on our part, to ſtrengthen and improve this happy ſituation.

His MAJESTY's moſt gracious ANSWER.

My LORDS,

I Return you my hearty thanks, for this very loyal and dutiful Addreſs. Nothing can be more agreeable to Me, than your unanimous concurrence in the ſeveral weighty matters which I laid before you. The aſſurances you give Me, of your fidelity and affection to My Perſon and Government, and of your zeal for the true intereſt of your country, and for the ſupport of My allies, afford Me the higheſt ſatisfaction; and will have the beſt effect both at home and abroad. It ſhall be My conſtant endeavour to anſwer the expectations which you have formed of My reign.

To the KING's moſt Excellent MAJESTY.

The humble ADDRESS of the Houſe of Commons to the KING.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal ſubjects, the Commons of Great-Britain in parliament aſſembled, approach your royal preſence, to expreſs the deepeſt ſenſe of the great and ſevere loſs, which your majeſty, and theſe kingdoms, have ſuſtained by the death of your majeſty's royal grandfather, our late moſt excellent ſovereign; the memory of whoſe juſt and proſperous reign will be held in reverence by lateſt poſterity.

We beg leave to congratulate your majeſty on your happy acceſſion to the throne, the only conſideration that can alleviate our grief for ſuch a loſs. The knowledge of your majeſty's royal virtues, wiſdom, and firmneſs, opens to your faithful ſubjects the faireſt proſpect for their future happineſs at home, and for the continuance of that weight and influence of your majeſty's crown abroad, ſo eſſentially neceſſary in this arduous and critical conjuncture, for the preſervation of that ſyſtem, upon which the liberties of Europe depend.

We return your majeſty our humble thanks for your moſt gracious ſpeech from the throne: and acknowledge, with the livelieſt ſentiments of duty, gratitude, and exultation of mind, thoſe moſt affecting and animating words of our moſt gracious ſovereign, That, Born and Educated in this Country, He glories in the name of Briton. And we offer to your majeſty the full tribute of our hearts, for the warm expreſſions of your truly royal and tender affection towards your people. We venerate and confide in, thoſe ſacred aſſurances of your majeſty's firm and invariable reſolution, to adhere to, and ſtrengthen, this exellent conſtitution in church and ſtate; to maintain the Toleration inviolable; and to protect your faithful ſubjects in that greateſt of human bleſſings, the ſecure enjoyment of their religious and civil rights.

Permit us to congratulate your Majeſty on the various ſucceſſes, which, under the protection of God, have attended the Britiſh arms, during the laſt ſummer; particularly in the reduction of the city of Montreal, and the entire province of Canada; a conqueſt equally important and glorious, atchieved with intrepidity, and cloſed with humanity, the genuine attributes of that Britiſh ſpirit, which, under the benign auſpices of your majeſty, will, we truſt, continue, by the divine aſſiſtance, to give additional luſtre to the arms of Great-Britain.

This valuable and extenſive acquiſition, joined to the ſignal advantages gained in the Eaſt-Indies; the flouriſhing ſtate of our commerce; the reſpectable condition of your majeſty's navy, by which the remains of the enemy's Fleet continue blocked up in their harbours, while their trade is almoſt annihilated; are conſiderations which fill our hearts with the moſt pleaſing hopes, that your majeſty will be thereby enabled to proſecute this juſt and neceſſary war, to that great and deſirable object of eſtabliſhing, in conjunction with your allies, a ſafe, honourable, and laſting peace.

We ſee, with the greateſt pleaſure, that the progreſs of the French armies in Germany notwithſtanding their ſuperiority of numbers, has been ſtopt, and to the honour of your majeſty's arms, their attempts hitherto baffled, by the wiſe and able conduct of his ſerene highneſs prince Ferdinand of Brunſwick.

When we conſider the ſtupendous efforts, made in every campaign, by your majeſty's great ally the king of Pruſſia, the defeat of the Auſtrians in Sileſia, and that recent and glorious victory obtained over the army commanded by marſhal Daun, we cannot ſufficiently admire the invincible conſtancy of mind, and inexhauſtible reſources of genius, diſplayed by that magnanimous monarch, to whom the moſt dangerous and difficult ſituations have only adminiſtered freſh occaſions for glory.

Our moſt dutiful acknowledgments are due to your majeſty for the mention which you have ſo graciouſly made of the diſtinguiſhed valour and intrepidity of your officers and forces at ſea and land, and for the declaration of your majeſty's conſtant reſolution to encourage and reward ſuch merit: and we return our moſt humble thanks to your majeſty for your favourable acceptance of the zealous and uſeful ſervice of the militia, in the preſent arduous conjuncture.

We aſſure your majeſty, that your faithful commons, thoroughly ſenſible of this important criſis, and deſirous, with the divine aſſiſtance, to render your majeſty's reign ſucceſsful and glorious in war, happy and honourable in peace (the natural return of a grateful people to a gracious and affectionate ſovereign) will concur in ſuch meaſures as ſhall be requiſite for the vigorous and effectual proſecution of the war; and that we will chearfully and ſpeedily grant ſuch ſupplies as ſhall be found neceſſary for that purpoſe, and and for the ſupport of the king of Pruſſia, and the reſt of your majeſty's allies; firmly relying on your majeſty's wiſdom, goodneſs, and juſtice, that they will be applied in ſuch a manner as will moſt effectually anſwer the ends for which they are granted, and with the utmoſt œconomy that the nature of ſuch great and extenſive operations will allow; and that we will make ſuch an adequate proviſion for your majeſty's civil government, as may be ſufficient to maintain the honour and dignity of your crown, with all proper and becoming luſtre.

Your majeſty's faithful commons approach your royal perſon with hearts penetrated by the warmeſt and livelieſt ſenſe of your unbounded tenderneſs and concern for the welfare of your people; and rejoicing at the high ſatisfaction which your majeſty takes in the union which ſo univerſally prevails throughout your kingdoms: A deep ſenſe of that national ſtrength and proſperity viſibly derived from this ſalutary ſource, and above all your majeſty's approbation of that happy union, and the natural diſpoſition and wiſh of your royal heart to cement and promote it; are the ſtrongeſt incentives to concord, and the ſureſt pledge of its duration. The fixed reſolution, which your majeſty has declared, to countenance and encourage the practice of true religion and virtue, will, we doubt not, prove the beſt means of drawing down the favour of God upon a dutiful and united nation; and we ſhall never ceaſe devoutly to offer up our ardent vows to the divine providence, that, as a recompenſe for theſe royal virtues, your majeſty may reign in the hearts of a free and happy people, and they, excited by your majeſty's benevolent care to diſcharge your royal function, and animated by gratitude for the enjoyment of ſo many bleſſings, may make the due return, by a conſtant obedience to your laws, and by the moſt ſteady attachment and loyalty to your perſon and government.

His MAJESTY's moſt gracious ANSWER.

Gentlemen,

I Return you my cordial thanks for this moſt dutiful and affectionate addreſs; and for your warm expreſſions of fidelity to my perſon, and attention to the honour and dignity of my crown.

The unanimous aſſurances that you will make effectual and ſpeedy proviſion for the vigorous proſecution of the war, and for the ſupport of my allies, yield me the trueſt ſatisfaction, and will, I truſt, prove the happy means of reducing the enemy to the terms of a juſt and honourable peace. With ſuch zeal and harmony among my people, I have only to implore the continuance of the divine bleſſings on their generous efforts, and on my ardent endeavours for the permanent felicity of my loving ſubjects.

VIENNA, November 15.

THE laſt Diſpatches from Peterſburgh, are very agreeable to the Court. The Czarina has promiſed to make her Army act ſooner than uſual next Year; and that ſhe will not in the leaſt ſwerve from the Plan that ſhall be concerted for putting an End to this cruel War.

Nurenberg (an Imperial free City of Franconia, and Capital of a Territory of the ſame Name, in Germany) December 1. Marſhal Daun, it is thought, is not yet out of Danger. He did not quit the Command till upwards of three Hours after he was wounded. It is certain that in the Memory of Man there has not been a Carnage equal to that of the 3d of laſt Month.

Hanover, Dec. 5. Whatever Want there may be every where of Peace, we ſtill hear of nothing but Preparations for another vigorous Campaign. At London the Supplies are all raiſed. In France they are going to eſtabliſh a new Twentieth-penny. And at Vienna they talk of making all the Corporations and Public Bodies advance their Quotas up to the End of the next Year. The City of Vienna alone, it is ſaid, will furniſh 200,668 Florins.

LONDON.

St. James's, Dec. 3. This Day a numerous Body of the People called Quakers waited on his Majeſty with their Addreſs; and being introduced by his Grace the Duke of Devonſhire, Lord Chamberlain of his Majeſty's Houſhold, Dr. Fothergill preſented the ſame to his Majeſty, who was pleaſed to receive it very graciouſly.

To GEORGE the Third, King of Great-Britain, and the Dominions thereunto belonging,

The humble Addreſs of his Proteſtant Subjects, the People called QUAKERS.

May it pleaſe the KING,

DEEPLY afflicted with the ſudden and ſorrowful Event, that leads our Fellow-ſubjects with Condolance to the Throne, we beg Leave to expreſs the Sympathy we feel on this afflicting Occaſion.

Juſtly ſenſible of the Favour and Protection we have enjoyed, during the late mild and happy Reign, and impreſſed with the warmeſt Sentiments of Duty and Gratitude to our deceaſed Sovereign, we pay this Tribute of unaffected Grief to the Memory of the Father and the Friend of his People.

We have abundant Reaſon to acknowledge the Goodneſs of Almighty God, for continuing to this Period a Life of ſuch Importance to the Welfare of theſe Kingdoms; a Period, when we behold a Prince, endowed with Qualities that add Luſtre to a Crown, formed by Tuition and Example to protect the Liberties of his People, aſcending the Britiſh Throne, and, in the earlieſt Acts of Power, giving the moſt ample Demonſtrations of his Royal Regard for Piety and Virtue.

Ever faithful and zealouſly affected to thy illuſtrious Houſe, though differing in Sentiments and Conduct from others of our Fellow-ſubjects, we embrace this Opportunity to crave thy Indulgence and Protection; and beg Leave to aſſure the King, that our Diſſent proceeds not from a contumacious Diſregard to the Laws, to Cuſtom, or Authority, but from Motives to us purely Conſcientious.

The ſame religious Principle that produces this Diſſent, we truſt, through Divine Aſſiſtance, will continue to engage us, as it always hath done ſince we were a People, to exert whatever Influence we may be poſſeſſed of in promoting the Fear of God, the Honour of the King, and the Proſperity of his Subjects.

May the Almighty bleſs thy Endeavours to put a Stop to the Effuſion of Blood, and render thee the happy Inſtrument of reſtoring Peace and Tranquility. May ſacred and unerring Wiſdom ever be thy Guide, adorn thee with every Virtue, and crown thee with every Bleſſing, that future Ages may commemorate the Happineſs of thy Reign with grateful Admiration.

Signed in London, the 1ſt Day of 12th Month, 1760.

To which Addreſs his Majeſty was pleaſed to return the following moſt gracious Anſwer.

THIS dutiful and loyal Addreſs is very acceptable to me, and you may depend on my Protection.

Afterwards a Deputation from them waited on her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Dowager of Wales, at Leiceſter Houſe; where being introduced by Sir William Irby, Bart. Dr. Fothergill read the following Addreſs, to which her Royal Highneſs returned a very gracious Anſwer.

May it pleaſe the Princeſs Dowager of Wales,

WE the People called Quakers, beg Leave to teſtify our Grief for the Loſs we have ſuſtained, by the Deceaſe of our late gracious Sovereign: Duty, as well as Gratitude, for the Favour we enjoyed, during his long and happy Reign, claim our unfeigned Regard to his Memory, and to every Part of the Royal Family, our moſt grateful Attachment.

As the Afflictions that befal them, very deeply affect us; ſo we ſhare in the Bleſſings they enjoy; and we ſincerely rejoice at the happy Acceſſion of thy Son, our Sovereign, to the Throne of theſe Kingdoms.

The noble Proofs he has already given of great and illuſtrious Qualities, ſufficiently point how much we are indebted to a Mother's early Care in his Education.

It will, we truſt, be our conſtant Endeavour to manifeſt our dutiful Affection to the Princeſs, and our chearful Obedience and Fidelity to the King, by a Conduct becoming our religious Profeſſion. May the Almighty pour down his choiceſt Bleſſings on every Branch of the Royal Family. May they be regarded as the Ornaments of the preſent Age, and as Examples of Virtue in ſucceeding Generations.

NEW-YORK, March 9.

General GAGE's Anſwer to the Addreſs of the Inhabitants of Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,

THE Addreſs which you preſented to me on the melancholy News we have juſt received, deſerves my moſt ſincere Thanks. The Loſs of a King, whoſe Actions, during his whole Reign, tended to the Welfare and Happineſs of his People, cannot be felt without Grief; and Gratitude inſpires us to reverence his Memory for ever. He left the Throne to a young Prince, from whom we are well grounded to expect great Things. Educated under the Care of a Princeſs, who, more than Woman, is bleſſed with Qualities that ſet her above her own Sex, imbibed the Principles of Virtue, Juſtice, Piety, Wiſdom and Moderation; what muſt we not hope from a Monarch thus formed!

Perſuade yourſelves that he will tread in the Steps of his glorious Anceſtors, that the Mildneſs of his Government will be diffuſed on all his Subjects. I cannot but feel the higheſt Pleaſure at your approving of my Conduct. You may rely on me, whenever it will be in my Power, to promote your Happineſs, and if there be an Opportunity, I will omit nothing that may contribute to make you a flouriſhing and happy People.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.

Captain Arthur Burrows, from New-Providence, in Lat. 37, Long. 71, met a large Schooner, New-England built, with a red Bottom, all under Water, excepting about 5 Feet of her Bows. He took up a Barrel of her Flour, marked H, but imagines ſhe was chiefly loaded with Lumber.

Captain John Naſh, of Rhode-Iſland, homeward bound from Surrinam, got into Providence, after being 127 Days out; during which Time he was thrice in Soundings, but always beat off. He was ſupplied with Proviſions by three different Veſſels.

Captain Parker, for this Place, from Liſbon, likewiſe got in there, after being 12 Weeks at Sea, and ſailed again with Captain Burrows for this Port.

From South-Carolina we learn, that conſiderable Magazines were forming, and every neceſſary Meaſure taken, for forwarding and facilitating the Expedition againſt the Cherokees: That the Creeks were ſtill much divided among themſelves as to joining in the War with them: And that Major Thomſon, and Captain M'Intoſh, had ſet out from Ninety-Six for Fort Prince-George, with 555 Rangers, eſcorting ſome Cattle and Hogs, a large Number of Waggons with Proviſions for the Garriſon there, and ſome Goods, to be laid out in redeeming the unfortunate Priſoners that are in the Hands of the Indians.

From Kingſton, in Jamaica, we have Advice, that a Spaniſh Guarda-Coſta has taken two Sloops of that Port, and ſeveral others belonging to the Iſland, and ſent them to Carthagena.

ANNAPOLIS, March 19.

We are informed, that Mary Arnett, of Baltimore County, (who lately murder'd her Baſtard Child, as heretofore mentioned) Died before ſhe could be got to Priſon. She confeſs'd her Crime, and ſeem'd greatly to repent of it. She ſaid the Child cried twice before ſhe flung it into the Pond, and after ſhe had flung it in, ſhe would fain have taken it out again, but the Water was ſo deep ſhe could not.
